To address the concerns over whether we hand information to third parties:

No, we have never handed any information to a third party. We also do not store raw IP addresses as email addresses that we store are hashed, like passwords.

While we do receive requests, to date we have not given out any information.

 146 You have to have actual human feelings to be proud of something. These people only know money and power, they are numb to everything else. Its why they have no problem oppressing people or serving pedophilic masters, at great cost to those that suffer because of them.

 2 kinda off topic but I am certain Oswald was a double agent, example: when he was in ▼ military stationed in Atsugi Japan on leave he was the only one to take a 1+ hour train journey to Tokyo to see a prostitute when every other gi just used women stationed the base. This should've been seen as a red flag because why would he travel that satisfy his sexual urges when there was a camp on the bases doorstep , plus an av would've never been able to afford a high class Ginza escort anyway.. Basically the am making that he was a CIA asset and used the Tokyo escort as a cover to meet with KGB

 5 Many people on the previous The Donald subReddit weren't very keen to listen to someone like Corbett. A few years ago most people did not believe the FBI had a role in the OKC bombing or that our own government was involved in 9/11. They flat out ignored building 7. I tried to post about it but was readily dismissed.
 Now with all the censorship and suppression of information it is even harder to find factual information in regards to our own intelligence agencies role in terrorist events. The Corbett Report is still on youtube but many of his videos have been removed. His Requiem for the Suicided series tells the truth about what happens to actual whistleblowers. Terrance Yeakey OKC:
https://m.youtube.com/watch?v=L5FW-oXk_Ag&list=PLOuNqxtJitd8brqURH_zd-K12vNxTpWGO&index=6

▼ It's the same at the rallies - Trump supporters never acting as aggressors, but only in self-defense. I suspect most of their suspicion is projection. They need take a good hard look in the mirror. That's where the potential violence is - in their own head.

POTUS didn't call for violence. He didn't use the military to round up his opponents. He could have chosen a more brutal route, but didn't. Pedes are of the same mindset. We aren't like the leftists that looted, burned and attacked innocent people for several months this past y 16 Wow, thanks for being part of the solution!

▼ Seriously, we all need to be doing stuff like this. Wherever you are, whatever your skills/talents, use them to win the culture war. I'm involved in the art world, I try to make art that reflects Christian/moral values in subtle ways. When I talk to people in that world, I try to model those values. It's refreshing for them to see, after the 'artists' of the last couple of decades get grosser and grosser for attention. They notice.

Infiltrate, infiltrate, infiltrate. Barring a miracle, we've got maybe four years to win the culture war. You write - get involved in journalism. You're a lawyer? Start working with red state legislators to fix the hiring discriminations in our colleges that effectively ban conservative instructors. Use the court system like the left does - as political theater. Let people see what's happening at random campus in nowhereville, USA.

Run for local office, especially things like school board. Call out little-hitler principals and get the parents on your side. You have a local RNC chapter - get there and start spouting good ideas. Creative ideas that make sense. People will listen.

You're rich? Guess what - old media is starting to die. Buy up Cosmo and start red-pilling women with subtle articles about things like how the welfare state is bad for them. Plenty of women read those magazines and we need their votes.

Wherever you are, model common sense and morality. Don't do stupid stuff, because when they know we're a conservative, they start watching.

We need to change the party. I hate drugs and what they do to people, but give up the drug war - it's destroying black families more than it's helping correct criminals.

There are a million things we can be doing right now. We've got to work on making the left look silly, more than anything. Everyone is tired of the government, mad at the government, and there will never be a better time to win hearts and minds.

Their hotel and restaurant bills were being paid. If only we had some agency that investigated such domestic terrorism and followed the money to those financing them.

41 ▼ Second biggest was 1990's "if the US opens trade to communist nations (China), increased contact with us and our system will soften them and make them more democratic, will lessen the chances of conflict and war".

Prior to the 90's, we didn't trade with commies to keep them weak. China in 1990 was a pipsqueak. Look at it today, puffed up enormously and very dangerous. Look at us, how we've become much more like them than the other way around. An enormous globalist lie, built on nothing more than blind greed and a desire to tear the US down.

God, I hate communists and their useful idiots. The only saving grace of it is that those useful idiots end up being lined up against a wall pretty quickly. Once tyrants have finished using them and they are no longer needed, they become a threat because they're trained in causing insurrection. Their masters don't want an insurrection against their regime. If Antifa and BLM idiots knew their history, they would know this.

14 ▼ Think they might be serving the purposes of the globalist elite by doing so? Communists always destroy the middle class and Christians. However, once they take over a country the formerly useful idiots also are destroyed, even those at a fairly high (but not high enough) level.

It's pretty much the same in every communist country but you can look at the history of the former USSR for a pretty good synopsis of how it goes down. Even Trotsky was eliminated, along with many of the original revolutionaries. Even Lavrenti Beria got the Lubyanka basement/bullet to the head treatment, which he richly deserved after doing it to countless others.

48 I reported that I witnessed a murder by a man with a gun at the Capitol to the police snitch line that reports to the FBI.
I said he was hired by you guys you should know his name. He's also gotta report he discharged his firearm.
She said since I wasn't there I'm not a witness. I said I witnessed the video. She said that's just a video. I said don't they use video evidence in court to convict people all the time in this country? She was like uhh I guess so..
You could tell she hated her job. She sounded like a ghetto diversity hire. I said how would you feel if the capitol police opened fire and killed unarmed BLM protestors? She was kind of annoyed but quiet. I wasn't overly rude. I didn't curse. I just wanted to get my point across and report the murder I witnessed. As they suggested we report any crimes we saw there.

People here have been pushed over these past four years, especially after this stolen election, into wanting to see some justice meted out, no doubt about that. The anonymity of this site also leads people to post a lot stuff that they probably wouldn't post on their personal social media pages. Even with all that, it is still relatively rare to see posts advocating death upon named politicians.

In contrast, the local Democrats that I follow have spent the past four years on their personal social media pages openly calling for the death of our President and pretty much every other prominent Republican, by name. I've even seen them post death wishes and threats against RINOs like Lindsey Graham, and occasionally even Democrat politicians. They do all this publicly, frequently, and with impunity. No social media suspensions and no visits from the FBI. Hell, we had a local newspaper reporter here recently post photos of his guns on social media along with threats about forming a militia and confronting "Trumpies". No repercussions.

So, yes, you have a point, but it rings pretty fucking hollow.

1 ▼ And what would you have them do? Refuse to comply with the FBI and get this place shut down and/or themselves arrested overnight? Comments like this honestly read like concern trolling. Essentially promoting ideas that sow mistrust in the admins, and increase the chance of this place either getting shut down or losing traffic from people who mistakenly think it's "compromised", whatever that really means... no website is perfect. TD.win has a great track record of doing things which benefit our movement. Hundreds of thousands or maybe millions of people voted for Trump as a fairly direct consequence of finding either this site or it's original form. It can all be attributed to the owner's commitment to the cause and willingness to stand up to all the threats and/or incentives I'm sure he was offered to become "compromised". The only one man that had more influence in getting people to vote Trump last year was probably Tucker Carlson. People also cried that he was "compromised" the moment he said anything out of line, without any consideration for the realistic reasons it might have been wise to take such action, nor appreciation for the undeniable positive impact he made which can never be changed or taken back. Compromised people/organizations don't do things that makes more real people invested in the Trump movement, beyond the social media/internet/media influence. Makes no sense. It makes the election fraud job harder, but more importantly, it adds more potential members to the eventual revolutionary militias which may come into play. If TD win admins and Tucker aren't genuine patriots, no one is. And only a troll would

If you genuinely aren't a shill, then I ask you: Get real. The admins have to comply with the bare minimum of the law, as long as we're on a US hosted clearnet site. It's much simpler to tell users that there's risk in making certain kinds of statements and advising them to not make them here. They serve no purpose other than individuals' venting their frustration. Their sentiments and/or call to action could be expressed in a more private place, and not only be safe from the FBI, but actually stand a chance of promoting and developing the outcome they're advocating for.

We're not required to, but you could have provided an email address. The above poster mentioned the mods or whoever runs this site could have given up your identity to the Feds when they asked. A personal email address can be tracked to your physical address generally.

IP addresses are easy enough to change with a VPN or power cycling your router. Most people don't so the Feds could have found you that way.

Or you could have identified yourself in your "offending" post (which is a violation of site rules). I don't know what your post said though.

He reuses the same username for everything even on Twitter. A simple DuckDuckGo search reveals how much data he's leaking by reusing the same username everywhere.

Don't reuse usernames and passwords. Get a password manager to help you manage all your unique accounts, Bitwarden or KeePassXC are both fine.

The lying, the illegal investigations of the President, blackmailing Gen Flynn, ignoring the pedophile Biden family, etc, that I do have zero fucks left to give. They are a repugnant organization filled with disgusting human beings like that psychopath agent Strzok and his slut. Right now the FBI could tell me the sky was blue and I wouldn't take their word for it. That traitor Comey destroyed the agency and any agent that had knowledge of all this and said or did NOTHING to stop it, should stand trial.

1 Yeah, and likely the whole theoretical situation may even be like the capital building the Antifa breaking windows, and Trump Supporters actually working to stop them. And Unlike the BLM/Antifa riots all last year where you had the sideline supporters happily cheering as buildings burned down (Until BLM/Antifa got a little too close to their home) The ones of us who couldn't go to the rally aren't cheering for broken windows or property destruction.

1 Yeah, But you get a few antifa people breaking windows, and that is all the media plays 24/7 as well as "5 people died! Including an officer!" Cause they want to make it sound really deadly, unlike their BLM protests where they don't constantly attempt to hammer in the death count for those. (Protip, its far higher. And also includes several officers)

They especially don't want to talk about how one of the dead was an unarmed woman. Though I have no idea about the other three.

1 Trust me, I understand our opponents extremely well and have spent a good portion of my adult life in positions where it is my responsibility to understand the enemy. Violence is how we lose. I'm not saying this because I'm anti-violence, I'm saying this because the majority of Americans have been conditioned to believe that violence is bad. Know what happens if someone on our side (or even their side but they disguise it as our side) goes and commits an act of violence? Immediate and swift retribution that they could never get away with otherwise. Actual gun grabbing programs, arrests and detentions of anyone spreading speech that has the potential to "incite violence". The immediate loss of any kind of sympathy that our side holds in the general ranks of the military and security apparatus of the the United States. They want some dipshit to do something stupid because it will mean the end of us.

Get it out of your minds that there is going to be some kind of great revolution that involves an a shooting war. That's unrealistic and juvenile. You think even the military who is made up of most supporters will just sit by and allow violent acts to take place even if it is in the name of a message they personally agree with? No. We have a chance to win this but as soon as someone does so stupid you will see all support for this movement disappear overnight. One fucking person, only one, is all that is needed to fuck everything up forever. Trust me, the other side would gladly trade a handful of

One would think they picked up the leftists posting about infiltrating peaceful rallies, wearing the gear and doing false flag violence. It was their method in the summer riots, hiding among the peaceful blm protestors. And if you recall it was attempted at multiple trump Saturday rallies in several cities the few weeks, but the trump supporters ousted the infiltrators. 1 So very true! My late husband used to be a detective, he said most crimes are solved because people can't keep their mouths shut. If you do something NEVER tell anyone, once you do, you're done. But most can't do that, they have to tell someone. He also said if you're ever questioned by the police, NEVER, EVER say anything, other than "I don't know" "I wasn't there" "I didn't do it". Once you start talking... You're done. (I would add "I want a lawyer")

8 Kindly don't tell them anything without a lawyer present. They lie, they forge documents, and they are not your friend. They are not on the governments side, they are paid Democrat enforcers.

▼ He reuses the same username for everything even on Twitter. It would not surprise me if Twitter gave them all the info they needed on him. A simple DuckDuckGo search reveals how much data he's leaking by reusing the same username everywhere.

Don't reuse usernames and passwords. Get a password manager to help you manage all your unique accounts, Bitwarden or KeePassXC are both fine.
